“ I met Jean and her husband Slim about 13 years ago. She was a good person and she was also a talented one as well. Her quilts and embroidery rivaled my own grandmother's. I told Jean how my Grandmother raised me and how I used to help her make quilts when I was little.

Jean made many beautiful pieces. I was always amazed how well she did even though I knew she had difficulty seeing. Despite that, her work was better than those who could see well. One quilt she made had all the state's birds on it. It was probably the nicest quilt I had ever seen. I hoped Jean would let me buy it as a gift to my Grandmother. Jean had worked very hard on it and didn't really want to let it go but agreed since it was for my Grandmother. I hope Jean knew how much I appreciated that, especially now since my grandmother has passed away and the quilt allowed me to give her joy.

Its comforting to know Jean is now reunited with her husband Slim and their son Mike. Peace, comfort and prayers to Sue and the rest of Jean's family and loved one's in this difficult time.

“ I don't think I met Jean until she moved in with Sue. I will always remember visiting with her and Sue when I would come into town and we'd sit and talk about anything and everything. Recipes, men, family, church. She was right there with us giving her take on things. I know she is at peace now with "Slim" and Mike and I pray for God's comfort for Sue. May God give you eternal rest Jean. Love, Terry
