“ I remember Allie and Dot would argue. If one said it was black, the other would say it was white. Then the next minute they would be laughing and joking. But, they both left here with secrets they kept to themselves.

“ Memories are abundant with the Bays women; I got a kick out of seeing my mom Dottie and her sister Allie get into some "fiesty" discussions. Living life to the fullest when they could and no regrets for doing so. I believe I have inherited some of their feistiness but not the reddish head of hair. Love and miss them both

“ i am so sorry. I remember spending the night at her house and she made a cake that I loved, It was a white cake with butter cream frosting. I will never forget. I also admired her spunk.
