“ Many of you will not know who I am but my heart has compelled me to speak out to the family and friends of Greg so I can affirm all the many wonderful qualities he possessed as I am sure you are all familiar with. I had the pleasure of interacting with Greg at work on a weekly and sometimes daily basis in the short year and a half time leading up to his passing. It began as just the typical business talk and chit chat on work related stuff but very quickly we became good friends where we would talk about our lives outside of work and he became someone I really trusted and confided in even though we never met in person and were across the country from one another. Greg always had an uplifting spirit about him and would provide encouragement and reassurance to me as a young professional and his insight was something I never took for granted. He was passionate about his work and worked diligently to make sure that he was well-prepared to help anyone out when we had questions or got in a bind. I could go on and on about his character and how positive of an impact he made on me, I am going to miss him dearly and wish he was still around to hear that but I know he is looking down and smiling knowing he was a such a positive influence in so many peoples lives. To his family, I am sorry for your loss and I hope these words echo the same feelings of gratitude that I am sure you feel for having known him like I have. May he rest in peace and shine forever in eternity

“ Greg was a good friend. He was always willing to help in anyway he could to move things along. I had the privilege of working with him over the last year. I don't think I would have made it without him . He was a constant support and was willing to share his knowledge and support. He will be missed.
