🙏 James, miss him! He used Debbie's knee for the gear shifter in his automatic car. Joker, just like his daddy, uncle Bill. I love remembering him singing, "Kiss an Angel good morning"...and well, he had a funny way of finishing that song. See you there! 🙏🙏

“ Jim Russell a classmate, a coworker, and a friend. Jim was all of these things to me! To be honest, I did not know Jim to well in school. Jim was a an outstanding athlete. Most guys would have been in seventh heaven to have had the athletic skills he had. Because of my uncoordinated endeavors, he and I traveled in different circles in school. Hardly new him! Now that i look back on it I find I missed out by not acquiring his friendship much earlier in life! As a coworker, Jim could out perform anybody toward producing, and if you were not putting out or giving the effort he thought you should he let you know! Even me and I did not even work for him! He worked circles around all of us! Because of his personality, you didn't even care when he chewed on you a little bit! I worked with Jim on the road and on the farm. It was hard to keep up with him! You know Jim started his association with me on the farm by wanting to hunt! He told me you let me and the boys hunt on that farm and we will put your hay up. I could not pass up a deal like that proposal. At first, he just performed the plain ole brute work lifting and tugging on hay bales. Then one day I was baling and I talked him into driving the tractor. He took to bailing hay like a duck to water!! The rest is history.

A couple stories i must share about Jim. The first story is really funny and when I think about it I always chuckle sometimes under my breath or out loud depending on where i was when I had the thought! It was not long after my daughter told us she was pregnant and i was out with Jim. So i proceeded to tell him that I was going to be grandpa! I remember him saying "Son, I am THE GRANDPA". Just like there were no other grandpas on earth other than him! I thought that to be so funny!

The second story is one of a more somber tone and very touching! My Dad had passed away and the funeral home was packed with people and my mother was not in any kind of shape to greet people at the casket so I stood there for two hours accepting peoples condolences and thanking them for coming. Finally, the last person greeted me and we talked and as soon as i thanked the gentleman for coming i looked up and saw Jim sitting about nine or ten rows back! I walked back and as soon as I got near him he said "Hey son". I remember those two words made feel so good!

I am going to close this little piece by saying Hey Son, I will see you on the other side!!
