“ I can't think of a more independent, reliable and thoughtful person than my grandmother. Though we didn't have the chance to spend much time together, she made sure to make an effort to reach out. Momom was always there when it mattered most; graduations, birthday partys, and even simple band rehearsals, she never failed to support me and my loved ones. I'll never forget eating licorice and playing POP games on her old desktop as a kid, or when we spent the night at her old apartment and learned how to roast chestnuts. Momom enriched our lives with her knowledge and experiences. I'll miss her dearly and love her very much.

“ Momom was the definition of a strong, independent woman. For as long as I knew her until her last moment, she fought to live the way she wanted. I can only hope to stay that true to myself as I grow older. Though we were not always in each others lives, I have many fond memories with her. I loved going to bingo with her when I was very little. In middle school, I remember watching Pride and Prejudice every time I came over to her house (both versions). In highschool, I remember making bourbon balls together and enjoying the holidays as a family. Even when she was all the way in New Jersey, she did her best to reach out on Facebook whenever she could. She may not be with us now, but a part of her will always remain in our memories.

“ Soooo sorry to hear about Lynn. She was one of those people you just don't forget. Last year I took her to see "Upper Falls" in St Albans, and she loved it! I would have taken her back this year ... to spend the day this time, but it just didn't happen.
Im gonna miss her!

“ Lynn, to say you were one of a kind is the only way to describe you.  You were a wonderful friend of mine and Gracie's for a very short 2 years but you gave us a lifetime of love and memories to cherish. You gave Gracie the love of a grandmother and you showered her with lots of love and joy. To say you will be missed is an understatement . Our life was more joyful when you were around. May you rest eternally
Love Gracie and Angie
