“ Rick was a fine person, and a friendly, funny guy. Met Rick in 7th grade, and played football with him till he got hurt. Pound for pound Rick was as tough as anyone I've ever met. People that didn't even pray, prayed for Rick and God answered those prayers and brought him out of his coma. Ran into Rick at J.C. Penney's, he was working in Men's wear. Year's later, bumped into him in Krogers with a cart full of baby formula. My kids were half grown by then, and I didn't start having kid's till 35. Then early in the school year later on I spied a young man with familiar features. "What's your name I asked?" Richard Stanley Smith, he answered. I told Stanley I knew his dad well. Stanley's back was giving him problems, so I told him when the other kid's were doing sit-ups, he could do push-up's instead. Stanley set the school record for push-up's that year. 49 I believe.
Rest easy old friend, and may God comfort your loved one's as only He can.

“ Richard was a good friend and family. I remember we once attended a wrestling match in my hometown of Franklin, WV and he thought it so amusing that the wrestlers came on one bus, put on a fight show and then got back on the same bus together! Funny the things one remembers. Rest in peace
